

Charité Virchow Clinics is a University hospital in Berlin, Germany. The Department of Surgery collaborating in SAFE-T project is involved in the development and execution of a large number of clinical trials in the fields of oncology, transplantation and intensive care. The clinic has been involved in clinical and translational trials concerning liver and kidney injury.

www.charite.de